TO OUR CUSTOMERS

WE take pleasure in presenting you with this Catalogue, in the preparation of which we have spared no effort to make it attractive, serviceable and original.

The Catalogue is arranged alphabetically throughout so that no confusion is possible in looking for any kind of plants wanted.

Special collections of Orchids for beginners, books on Orchids and Supplies will be found on the last pages.

Personal attention is given to every order, however small. All plants are selected with the greatest care and no expense is spared in the packing of same, thus insuring their safe arrival at the most distant points.

We would respectfully ask our foreign customers to always instruct us to forward by express and not by mail. In sending by express we can pack in properly ventilated boxes: this reduces risks to a minimum, while by mail the plants are deprived of air, so necessary for their welfare at all times.

This Catalogue is by no means complete, but represents the bulk of our stock at the date of publication.

We are constantly receiving fresh importations of Orchids direct from the forests of Mexico, Central and South America, and the East Indies; and upon receipt of such importations our customers will be notified by letters or circulars, stating varieties received and prices thereof.

Our place of business is situated on Morris Avenue, Summit, N. J., twenty miles from New York, on the D., L. & W. R. R.

How to reach our place from New York. Take any of the ferries at Barclay, Christopher or 23d St., or the Hudson tubes from the Hudson Terminal or any of the stations on 6th Ave. to Hoboken, and thence by the Lackawanna R. R. to Summit, N. J. The journey takes less than one hour. Once in Summit, a cab will take you to our place in a few minutes, or you can take a north-bound trolley which passes our property on Morris Ave.

Owing to the great number of species and varieties of Orchids grown by us, we have at all times something of interest to show visitors, whom we welcome here at any time.

We are ready to furnish our customers with advice at any time and on any subject pertaining to Orchids.

ORCHIDS—CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

Orchids were never more popular than they are at present, due to the fact that they are, without question, the handsomest, the strangest, and the most lasting flowers in all the floral kingdom.

Most private collections have some representative of this queenly class of plants, while the florists are well convinced of the fact that, to keep pace with the times, they must grow Orchids, the demand for which is daily increasing. Below we are simply repeating what we have said these last 15 years regarding the culture in general of Orchids in this country and we see no reason to change at present. The fact that some of our competitors have flattered us by copying these directions shows that they are well adapted to our conditions.

Orchids are the most easily grown plants of any, if a few common-sense points are observed. The cardinal points are: First, plenty of air at all times; during the Summer months have the ventilators open night and day. Second, an abundance of light without being exposed to the full sun, which is too strong, but have the glass lightly shaded. Third, an abundant supply of water when watering, permitting the plants to dry out well occasionally so as not to get them sour. Fourth, place the plants from 18 inches to 4 feet at the most from the glass. A night temperature of 58-60° and correspondingly higher during the day will suit the greatest number of Orchids, where only one small greenhouse is available.

A great many Epiphytal Orchids need a season of growth and rest. The growing season commences when the plants begin to grow, when they should receive the maximum amount of moisture.

As soon as the growth is completed the plant should receive less water, so as to ripen the pseudo-bulb and thus insure good flowering. Under no circumstances should water be withheld so as to cause the plant to shrivel. When the buds appear, give light syringings of water, so as to develop the flower to perfection. After the flowering season is over the plant generally begins to show signs of growth, when it should receive potting or rebasketing if needed; if not, then only a top dressing of sphagnum moss, and the plant may be started into growth again. It may be well to mention in connection with the foregoing that there are exceptions to this treatment, our climate being much more favorable for Orchids than that of Europe, as a whole, notably for Orchids found on this hemisphere or such species as are found in Central and South America. In particular, the Colombian Cattleyas have scarcely any resting season in their own country (with the exception, perhaps, of C. Schröderæ), on account of the short rainy and dry seasons, both of which are never extreme; and we find here that such Cattleyas as C. Trianae, C. Mendelii, C. Chocoensis and C. Percivaliana will finish their growth and start another, sometimes two, all of which will be fully developed and ready for the flowering season. European growers would resent such culture; here it is sometimes necessary and profitable.

The best potting material is good fibrous peat and sphagnum moss, with lumps of charcoal and potsherd intermixed.

Firm potting is absolutely necessary, as no Orchid will grow well if it is loosely potted. In repotting, care should be taken not to disturb the roots, rather break the pots, while the baskets may be taken apart carefully or set into a larger one and material worked around. Avoid overpotting and do not disturb the plants unless necessary. With these general cultural directions any beginner will be able to grow Orchids and reap a rich harvest of their exquisite flowers.

For further and more detailed information we respectfully advise the procuring of some book on Orchids. A list of such books will be found on page 52 of this Catalogue.

CATTLEYA

Cattleya Dowiana—See page 10

The Cattleya is an exceptionally interesting and desirable subject of the Orchid family. With its closely allied genus, Laelia, it ranks among the most popular, showy and useful of all Orchids. The large, exquisitely beautiful and often sweet-scented flowers are produced in ever-changing and attractive combinations, and being admirably adapted for decorative work at all kinds of functions, they are in constant demand. Cattleyas are indigenous to the Western Hemisphere, South and Central America being the regions where they abound. The species vary in habit, but practically in all the flowers are borne on upright scapes. They are easy of culture and thrive in a medium temperature of 58-60° by night and 64-70° by day and moist atmosphere, with plenty of light and ventilation. Pots, pans or baskets in which they are placed should be well drained; use good fibrous peat and sphagnum moss, together with small pieces of broken charcoal and crocks. The plants require shading during bright Summer sunshine, though it must be remembered that they love the light, and a dark, gloomy house should therefore be avoided.

All those marked with an X are hybrids and require the same cultural conditions as the species.

Correspondence Solicited on Anything Pertaining to Orchids

In addition to the plants listed in this catalogue, we have always on hand a number of fine varieties which crop up from time to time, including a number of Seedling Orchids from fine crosses.

Estimates will be furnished on large quantities of Orchids for stocking conservatories or greenhouses in any part of the country.

We have always a number of applications on our books from competent Gardeners and Orchid Growers whom we can recommend to parties requiring the services of such men.

CYPRIPEDIUMS

(Lady Slipper Orchid)

Nothing in the entire Orchid family offers such a great number of species, varieties and hybrids as do the Cypripediums. The number of hybrids is becoming almost unlimited and the variations in forms and colors are almost bewildering. It is difficult to imagine anything in the plant line more beautiful, varied and interesting than a collection of Cypripediums; they are a constant source of interest to the cultivator from one end of the year to the other. The flowers when cut will outlast anything else we know, and nothing can compare in beauty and distinctiveness to a vase of cut Cypripediums of various kinds. They are the easiest of all Orchids to grow, with few exceptions.

Pot culture is preferable, and the material should consist of fibrous peat and sphagnum moss, with plenty of drainage. Cypripediums do not require any resting season and therefore should be kept moist all the year round. A temperature of 60° to 65° suits them well, with plenty of light and ventilation and lightly shaded. All the plants quoted herein are nice, healthy plants, with from two to four growths, according to kinds.

These are so distinct in regard to habit of the plants, colors and shapes of the flowers, that they really form a separate group and we have listed them below, apart from the others. Many of them have long, ribbon-like petals and all produce a number of flowers on tall scapes, one after another. It is thus possible to have these plants in flower for a long time, for as soon as one flower drops, another takes its place.

The colors of many are white, or nearly so, others rose pink to purple, while some are green, suffused with yellow and purple. They are of easiest culture and form handsome and stately subjects in the greenhouse or conservatory when in flower.

DENDROBIUM

Dendrobiums are a genus of epiphytal Orchids containing many species of considerable horticultural merit. More than 300 in number, the species are distributed through the tropical countries of the Eastern Hemisphere, Australia, Japan, China, India and the Philippine Islands furnishing large quantities. Most of the commercial Dendrobiums are easily cultivated, and their brightly-colored, serviceable flowers are freely produced. In dealing with such an extensive genus, having so many different forms, it is but natural that the mode of culture should vary somewhat, but their treatment can be understood and the desired result usually accomplished when it is borne in mind that as a general rule they require heat and abundance of moisture when growing, a season of cooler temperature and a reasonable exposure to air and light to ripen the growth, and a drier season to produce and mature the flowers, which are mostly large and showy, delicately colored and quite fragrant. In habit, the plants vary from the dwarf and tufted, about three inches in height, to species with pseudo-bulbs growing three to four feet high and lusty in proportion. A compost of fibrous peat and sphagnum moss, in equal parts, suits them best, and they should be grown in pans, hung near the glass.

ODONTOGLOSSUM

The plants included in this section of cool-house Orchids form a group of unusual beauty and utility. The genus, closely related to Oncidium and Miltonia, embraces about 100 species originating in the higher regions of the Andes, from Mexico and Guatamela to Colombia and Bolivia. Odontoglossum crispum, probably the most extensively grown Orchid, is particularly admired for its extremely handsome flowers and easy culture. A remarkable number of natural hybrids occur in the family, and intercrossing no doubt accounts in large measure for the size and horticultural value of the genus. With few exceptions, the Odontoglossum is found in extremely moist situations, where the annual rainfall is excessive and the temperature more or less even and cool throughout the year.

A number of beautiful and rare hybrids adapted to our climate will be found listed below, alphabetically, with the species.
